College of St. Francis Xavier

NEW YORK

HISTORICAL STATEMENT

The College of St. Francis Xavier, conducted by the Fathers of the Society of Jesus and intended for day scholars only, was founded in October, 1847, and in January, 1861, was endowed by the Regents of the University of the State of New York with full collegiate powers and privileges.

The first Latin School in the city of New York was opened over two hundred years ago, in 1683, by members of the English Province of the Society of Jesus. At that time the city consisted of a few cabins grouped about the old fort at Bowling Green. The pupils of the Jesuit School were called to their classes by the ringing of the bell of the old Dutch church in the fort. In 1809, a school was established on a new site on Fifth Avenue and Fiftieth Street, and was known as the New York Literary Institute. The present Cathedral has been erected on the grounds of that institution.

The New York Literary Institute was followed, in 1847, by the School of the Holy Name of Jesus, near the corner of Walker and Elizabeth Streets. After the destruction of this building by fire, January 22, 1848, classes were conducted for a time on James Street. Later a house was rented at No. 77 Third Avenue, between Eleventh and Twelfth Streets, while more spacious accommodations were in preparation on the present site on West Fifteenth Street. When the students entered their new quarters, in September, 1850, the present name of the College of St. Francis Xavier was adopted.

On April 17, 1913, the Regents of the University of the State of New York, amended the old charter of the College of St. Francis Xavier, granted December 2, 1862, "by extending the authorized location and jurisdiction of the College to include the present City of New York."

By this amendment of the charter, the College was authorized to extend its educational operations beyond the limits of Manhattan Borough.

In 1907, the Rector of the College of St. Francis Xavier, negotiated for the purchase of a site for a new college in Brooklyn. The new college was opened in 1908, with a provisional charter, to become an absolute charter, on condition that the new college would have the amount of assets required by law, over and above liabilities, namely $500,000, at the end of five years. The five years elapsed, and the required amount was not at hand.

As the Regents of the University of the State of New York do not permit an institution with a provisional charter to confer degrees, a petition was sent to the Regents asking authorization for the College of St. Francis Xavier to extend its location and jurisdiction to Brooklyn.

The petition was granted, and consequently the College of St. Francis Xavier will conduct its college classes in Brooklyn hereafter, and will confer its degrees on the students graduating from the College in Brooklyn.

The Jesuit Fathers, who are conducting several educational institutions in and near New York City, have for a long time had the conviction that some concentration of their educational forces was a necessity.

The great changes in population centres in Manhattan and the Bronx, together with the increased transportation facilities, convinced the Superiors of the Colleges, that economy of forces and efficiency of work demanded a change in the relations of their colleges.

Although the changes just indicated have been made in the collegiate work of the colleges, there will be no change in the High School or Academic work. Consequently the Xavier High School and the Xavier Grammar School will continue classes at 39 West 15th Street, and 53 West 15th Street, respectively.
